Ruptured Men Get
$3.50 Truss Free

Doctor Gives $3.50 Truss Free to Prove His Method Will Help Rupture.

Kansas City, Mo.—A newer rupture method has been developed by a doctor that is so successful he offers to give a $3.50 truss free if it fails. It does away with leg straps, elastic belts, binding springs and harsh pads. Many have reported their ruptures better. Often in a very short time. Others say they no longer need any support. If you are ruptured you should try it. The doctor offers to send his method on 30 days' trial and will send the $3.50 truss free with it. If the method does not help your rupture return it and keep the $3.50 truss for your trouble. If you are ruptured just write Dr. Kaiser, 1224 Koch Bldg., 2306 Main St., Kansas City, Mo., for his trial offer.—(adv.)

Teachers Create Attractive Reading Room,
Wash Room, Lunch Room at Cost of $35

The attractive reading room above is an adjunct of the Southwest DeKalb Consolidated school. It, together with a spotless washroom and an inviting lunch room were created in an abandoned building adjoining the school at a total cost of $35, with the co-operation of patrons of the school and under the direction of three primary teachers.

McDONOUGH, Ga., Feb. 7.—Of $35 and its magic purchasing power, as well as the harmonious co-operation among pupils, patrons and teachers at the Southwest DeKalb Consolidated school, is the tale told by Miss Mildred Patillo, of McDonough. Outstanding among the achievements of the three primary teachers, Miss Patillo, Miss Sarah Johnston and Miss Nontine Gilbert, has been the establishment of a reading room, a washroom and a lunch room.

For five years Miss Patillo has taught in this school. Last year an overflow of students caused the authorities to quarter the first three grades in the overgrown and outmoded original building. The roof leaked and the surroundings were most unattractive, so Miss Patillo, acting upon a hint from Mrs. Irene Wells, primary supervisor, set to work to arouse some desire for improvement.

Finding the trustees willing to co-operate and repair the dilapidated structure, the teachers presented their difficulties to the parents with almost miraculous results. The roof and the outside of the building were overhauled; and, with the purchase of paint, remarkable effects were secured with the help of the brushes in the hands of the little pupils. The mothers embroidered chair covers with Mother Goose figures to add to the equipment of the first grade and to that of the reading room. Furniture and fittings were made by two fathers who contributed their labor.

The reading room is the unique feature. A color scheme of pea-green, ivory and mahogany has been carried out and it is a source of beauty to the eye as well as to the mind. D. B. Barfield made chairs of orange crates, which the children painted green; Will Born the table, fireplace and screens. The rag rugs were constructed by the second graders under the direction of Miss Gilbert, and the furnishings were bought with prize money secured at various county exhibits. The more than 200 volumes were gifts at a book shower.

The children read under an hour system. It is a high privilege to be allowed to go to the reading room and one that is coveted. Only pupils who are perfect in deportment obtain this opportunity.

The aquarium, the vase and the candlesticks adorning the reading room have histories. The third grade prize money bought the aquarium and the goldfish; the vase was made by a third grade student, Elizabeth McKee, and the candlesticks are more than a hundred years old. They were the property of Mrs. Mildred Martin Patillo, the great-grandmother of Miss Patillo, and antedated the use of lamps in Henry county. Miss Patillo carried them to the school, where the children gilded them and placed them in their library. The pictures were awarded.

The wash room is another combined effort. Feeling the need of hot lunches for the 100 primary children, their mothers, led by Mrs. W. G. Branch, agreed to work in the kitchen in relays, two a day, to provide them. Hot meals necessitated clean hands, so a definite place was set aside. Each child brings his towel and has a separate wash basin and soap rack assigned. The room also contains a first-aid kit, a water cooler with individual paper cups and a dressing table and stool.

The total cash outlay amounted to about $35. This sum was received from the profits of the lunch room. When it is considered that the lunches are sold at a flat rate of 5 cents cash and consist of cocoa, bread and one hot dish, the miracle grows.

Plans are now under way to beautify the outside. The trustees have painted the walls and repaired the windows, so now the children, parents and teachers are eagerly talking of plantings and landscaping. A few more months will show an exterior appearance in keeping with the interior.

YOUTHFUL BANDIT'S PROBATION REVOKED

Albert Wheelless, Identified in Holdups, Must Serve Out Term.

Probation of Albert T. Wheelless, College Park youth, has been revoked by Judge Virlyn B. Moore, of Fulton superior court, and Wheelless must serve four months remaining on a 12-month sentence for burglary and robbery. Wheelless was identified Sunday at the Macon police station as a companion of J. M. Wilson in the robbery of C. H. Johns, manager of a Rogers store on Oak street, according to dispatches from Macon.

Wilson was identified by Johns as the unmasked bandit who held up his store three times in the last five weeks, according to advices from Macon. Wheelless was identified by Johns and Norman Goddard, of 925 Oak street, as having been Wilson's companion in one of the holdups, it was said.

Macon advices were that T. M. Wells, manager of the Rogers store at 400 Cherokee avenue, identified Wilson as the youth who held him up in his store on January 23. Wheelless and Wilson have been identified through photographs as the bandits who held up employees of Seigler's drug store, Savannah, and robbed the cash register of 324 last Monday night. Wheelless and Wilson denied robbing the Savannah store and the Atlanta stores, it was said.

Wheelless and Wilson have confessed to holding up J. P. Wheeler in Macon last Wednesday night, it was said. The youths are accused of kidnapping Wheeler and Police Chief Scott Rivers, of Barnesville.

Wheelless' mother, Mrs. W. E. Wheelless, visited her son Sunday at the Macon police station. Mrs. Wheelless said that she had worked hard to get her son out of jail here when he was serving two concurrent sentences of 12 months each for burglary and robbery, but that she "suspects nothing can be done for him now," according to Macon advices.

Thousands Visit New Orleans As Carnival Enters Final Week

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7.—(UP) Mardi Gras carnival, the greatest municipal show on earth, reached its final and biggest week today in a blaze of tinsel and banners and of music and mirth.

It was the 106th annual showing of the oldest and strangest festival in America. The east boasts half a million players—the entire population of New Orleans. It had an audience comprised of the thousands of spectators, here from every corner of the earth to watch the spectacle.

There were 1,500 school children here from Alabama alone. Other visitors have come by air, sea, train and automobile from every state and many nations.

Business of the city will remain virtually at a halt until Tuesday night, when the bells of age-old St. Louis cathedral toll the arrival of Lent, season of penitence, and the end of the show.

Streets dazzled with color today. Flags and bunting covered every building, every lamp post and arched the sidewalks. Huge placards greeted Thousands wended their way through the quaint French quarter and swarmed over the decks of "Old Ironsides" and the battleship Arkansas, open for inspection at the river front. Tuesday is Mardi Gras, and brings the grand finale. From early dawn until midnight, celebrants will roam the streets in costumes and grotesque masks.

CAMELS and DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS go "AROUND THE WORLD" together!

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS smokes Camels—it is his only indulgence.

He took Camels with him on his year-long journey to the far corners of the earth when he made his new picture, "Around the World in Eighty Minutes*." He smoked Camels when he interviewed Oriental potentates, amused street urchins in Bombay; when he shot leopards from the back of an elephant.

Why Camels?

Doug prefers the natural freshness of Camel cigarettes. They are never parched or toasted, the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that. Hence they retain their natural moisture and exquisite flavor which otherwise would be lost.

A blend of choice Turkish and mild, sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos, Camels are air-sealed in the Camel Humidor Pack to prevent drying-out and loss of flavor. This protection afforded Douglas Fairbanks fresh cigarettes in Hong Kong, Burma, wherever his travels took him.

See Douglas Fairbanks in "Around the World in Eighty Minutes*." Note the enjoyment on his face as he smokes a Camel. Then, if smoking is your relaxation, see for yourself what freshness means in a cigarette. Switch to Camels for just one day—then leave them—if you can!

MANY BURGLARIES KEEP POLICE BUSY

Filling Stations, Stores
Victimized by Marauders and Hold-Up Men.

Police were kept busy over the week-end by a series of burglaries and robberies throughout the city. Sheriff J. Campbell, who gave his address as Detroit, was arrested by Hadlo Patrolmen W. H. Evans and C. W. Maundlin early Sunday morning as he was leaving a filling station at 418 McDonough road. Little was missing from the station, which had been entered through a side window. Evans and Maundlin had a hatchet, screw driver and other tools in his pocket. He was held on suspicion.

W. Brett, of 2040 Hardee street, a street car operator, was held up by two negroes at Estoria and Fair streets early Sunday and robbed of $25 in cash and $10 worth of car tickets, he reported. The men escaped.

A revival of pay telephone robberies also occurred Saturday night and Sunday, with two filling stations reporting that boxes were torn from the walls and destroyed. One station was located at 590 Highland avenue, N. E., and the other at 472 McDonough road. The marauders entered both establishments through the rear doors. Officials of the telephone company say the loss from pay station robberies amounts to thousands of dollars every year.

Small groceries and markets were victimized in several petty burglaries, it was reported. Groceries and tobacco of an undetermined quantity were taken from a grocery store located at 1540 DeKalb avenue, by burglars who forced their way in through the rear door. A large quantity of coffee and ham were missing Sunday morning from the meat market at 535 Erwin street, the manager reported.

Merchandise from a Rogers store at 641 Dill avenue was stolen by nocturnal visitors Saturday. It was discovered Sunday, and a large quantity of candy and tobacco was missing from the grocery store at 695 Whitehall street, according to police reports. Burglars twisted the lock from the front door.

As he was putting his car in the garage early Sunday, C. S. Moncrief, of 571 Capitol avenue, was held up by two armed negro men and robbed. He lost a small amount of cash and his watch, he told police.

NORRIS 'ANSWERS' HOOVER ON SHOALS

voiced to the conclusions of Lieutenant Colonel M. C. Tyler, chosen by the commission to determine whether the government could successfully operate the electrical plant at Muscle Shoals. Colonel Tyler recommended against government operation of the Shoals power plant.

The league said Tyler was a former chief engineer of the federal power commission and that he was the principal adviser to F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the commission, adding:

"As is well known, Bonner resigned his position after his conduct in office had been exposed to the public in both house and senate committees and had become a national scandal."

Tyler's conclusion that the power plants at the Shoals were not suitably located to serve as the main generating stations of an extensive independent power system had been refuted, the league said, by a previous report prepared by army engineers.

They pointed out in response to a house request that the league had there was a shortage of hydro-electric power in southern Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, eastern Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana, Mississippi and Kentucky which could be supplied from the Tennessee river basin.

"To the engineers of the league's persuasion no public plant would be suitably located," the report said, "except upon the star Canopus."

Figures given by Tyler in support of his conclusion that the sale price of power by private companies in the Muscle Shoals region was low were challenged by the report.

It asserted that Colonel Tyler compared private wholesale rates of power companies serving the region with public retail rates of municipal power plants in arriving at the conclusion that there was little difference between them.

The report said figures showed the Alabama Power Company charged 5.58 cents per kilowatt hour for its residential service and 8.75 for its rural service as compared with a 1.02 rate on industrial power.

The conclusions of the report were that the chairman and a majority of the members of the president's commission "are not engineering experts but politicians and lobbyists beholden to the power trust."

"Its recommendations are so full of error contain the same 'jokers' which have caused congress to reject as fraudulent the bid of every private corporation seeking to grab Muscle Shoals power on the pretense of helping farmers."

The findings of Colonel Tyler that government operation would create a deficit of $25,000,000 in 15 years is based upon arbitrary uncounted assertions of his own which are proven absurd by previous non-political reports of his fellow engineers.

"President Hoover's manifest purpose in creating the commission was, by involving democratic governors, to embarrass the democratic party, prevent it making Muscle Shoals an issue in the campaign. It would also embarrass progressive republicans. The report is a campaign document intended to catch farm votes without sacrificing Mr. Hoover's main political support, the power trust."

T. C. LAW'S BROTHER KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—William E. Law, 46, Jacksonville businessman, was killed today when his car overturned near here.

Witnesses said Law's machine skidded off the highway, turned over several times and struck an electric light pole. The accident occurred as he was going to his home in the suburbs.

Mr. Law was connected with an oil company here. He was a native of South Carolina, but had been a resident of Jacksonville 14 years.

Besides his widow, a son, and a daughter, he is survived by a brother, Thomas C. Law, of Atlanta.

Thomas C. Law, prominent Atlanta man, and leader in Shrine activities, left for Jacksonville Sunday night upon receiving news of his brother's death.

"River" of Drinkables Seized in N. Y. State

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(UP)—The amount of liquor seized and destroyed in New York state in 1931 would make a sizeable rivulet if it had been poured into a ravine instead of the sewer. The regional prohibition enforcement headquarters has revealed.

Agents confiscated 1,482,192 gallons of beer, 122,510 gallons of wine, and 390,564 gallons of whiskey. These seizures came from 6,217 speakeasies, 386 night clubs, 94 cutting places, 455 stills, 171 breweries and 64 drug stores.

U. S. WITHHOLDS PEACE EFFORTS

Washington Fearful Impending Clash Will Extend to Settlement.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The eleventh day of bitter fighting between the Chinese and Japanese at Shanghai passed without definite steps on the part of the United States and the three co-operating European powers to suggest a new peace plan to the Tokyo government.

It was a week ago today that President Hoover initiated the plan which China accepted and Japan rejected. The latter's statement of its intentions to treat the Manchurian and the Shanghai situations as entirely separate and to increase its military forces for the defense of its citizens and property in the Shanghai area has halted diplomatic approaches temporarily.

Secretary Stimson and the foreign ministers of other interested powers are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the fighting which is rapidly developing into a large military movement. It now involves a 16-mile area between the International Settlement and the Yangtze river, and centers about the defenses of Woosung, which lies at the junction of the Whangpoo river with the Yangtze.

The Japanese are supported by destroyers in the Whangpoo, and Japanese bluejackets and soldiers are moving from the north and east against the Chinese. Foreign commanders defending the International Settlement fear this clash, organized on such a large scale, may extend into the International Settlement.

Through consular and diplomatic officers in Tokyo, Shanghai and Nanking the United States and Great Britain, as well as France and Italy, are calling the attention of Japanese officials daily to the peril in which foreigners are placed at Shanghai.

CHINESE CLINGING TO BATTERED FORT

infantry forces, expected to pour into the country immediately. One Japanese troop division was reported just off the China coast awaiting transports to bring them ashore. Some reports also were about a transport in front of the Woosung forts.

Japs Uncomfortable.

The Japanese forces at Woosung, which yesterday failed to cross Woosung creek in a fierce skirmish and enter the native town, spent an uncomfortable night along the west bank of the creek without shelter of any kind.

Meanwhile the Chapei battle line was quieter than it had been since an intermittent battle and fire began to flare 10 days ago.

Along the more far-flung scenes of operations, namely, further up the Yangtze, everything was quiet awaiting better weather. At Paoshan, where fighting occurred yesterday, and further on to Liuhio the armed forces of Japan and China awaited for whatever might be revealed when the fog rolled back.

Japanese naval forces off Woosung totaling scores of ships were also helpless before the elements. Observations were impossible, and the naval plane carriers sent no bombers into the opaque fog.

The Chinese were making feverish preparations to meet the encircling tactics of the enemy boats at Liuhio and in the Woosung area. Liuhio, some 25 miles up the Yangtze from Woosung, which itself is 16 miles northwest of Shanghai proper, was a veritable confusion of trenches and barricades and sand-bag walls. Chinese reports said the Japanese had landed troops at Liuhio, resulting in an outbreak of hostilities in that vicinity.

tempt some form of military coup in eastern Siberia.

Attention here was also directed to a reported switch in alliances by General Mah Chan-shan, the Chinese commander who was driven out of Tientsin by the Japanese in their Manchurian drive.

Mah Chan-shan, whose position has been doubtful during the later Japanese drive on Harbin—the Chinese claiming he had reaffirmed his loyalty to Nanking (Honanku)—evidently has returned to the Japanese camp following General Jiro Tamon's occupation of Harbin.

The Rengo (Japanese) News Agency in dispatches from Harbin said the erstwhile Chinese hero of Nouni river bridge and Tientsin had gone to Harbin from his base at Halun on Saturday night seeking an interview with Tamon.

The Japanese agreed and the pair met in the Japanese headquarters for a long conference. It was understood that General Mah had pledged loyal co-operation with the Japanese in northern Manchuria. Shortly thereafter General Tamon entertained his guest at Suifu luncheon, where much champagne flowed.

Shortly after the revelation of the entente-cordiale, General Mah was expected to proceed to Tientsin to assume governorship of Heilungkiang province.

Meanwhile Japanese airplanes today continued their destructive bombing and machine gun sniping at the retreating forces of General Ting Chao, who was driven out of Harbin the last week. The Japanese claimed they had scattered two large enemy groups in the districts north of Harbin.

Valuable Pictures Stolen From Gallery

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A number of valuable etchings, one by James McNeill Whistler, and some Japanese prints were reported stolen today from the Walpole Galleries.

Mrs. Lenore Xiang Turnbull, proprietor, declined to state how many of the pieces were taken or to estimate their value. She said they had been turned over to her for disposal at auction by the executors.

The Whistler etching, Mrs. Turnbull said, was "A Street Scene in Savona."

LEAGUE GROUP REPORT IS READY FOR COUNCIL

Contents of Communication
From Shanghai Closely
Guarded at Geneva.

GENEVA, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The League of Nations commission of inquiry at Shanghai has made a report to Secretary General Sir Eric Drummond, it became known today, but its contents were closely guarded.

It was authoritatively believed, however, that the report was of minor importance as compared to the negotiations now progressing between America and other great powers for settlement of the Sino-Japanese dispute. The document undoubtedly contained in official form much information previously reported by the press and other unofficial sources.

It was thought probable tonight that the League council would not even be convened tomorrow to hear the report.

The Japanese held the attitude that the council should await the great powers' mediatory efforts and the councilors appeared to agree with this view. The council might be summoned, however, to hear other matters.

The Japanese delegation presented to the secretariat Tokyo's new declaration of policy in the Pacific, and the Shanghai area particularly. The Japanese apparently were sticking by their demands that the Manchurian question be kept separate from the Shanghai incident and that they shall not be treated under Article XV of the League covenant.

(Article XV provides that in a dispute among League members not submitted to arbitration or judicial settlement, the matter will be submitted directly to the council.)

The echo of the Tokyo report that Japan would withdraw from the League if her view in this matter was not respected was heard in unofficial Japanese quarters but such a determination was not officially confirmed.

Chancellor Heinrich Brüning, of Germany, came to Geneva for the first time in an official capacity today to attend the conference and announced he would insist on a meeting of the council of the League of Nations at once to consider the "Memorandum."

The deposing and arrest of Otto Boettcher, German president of the League, an "international city" in Lithuania, were described by the chancellor as a flagrant violation of the League statute drafted by Norman Davis in 1924 and guaranteed by England, France, Italy and Japan.

Tardieu Invites U. S. To Back League Army

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Andre Tardieu, French delegate to the world disarmament conference here, pleaded with America in a radio speech tonight to support the French proposal to arm the League of Nations with a force of international police.

Broadcasting on the eve of his address to the conference tomorrow, M. Tardieu said the French scheme, presented Friday, "invites the United States to seek ways and means of co-operation."

"We desire to strengthen the League," he said. "Surely it is in the interests of the United States as a world power to collaborate with an organization which includes more than 50 states."

Menace of Floods Slowly Receding

YAZOO CITY, Miss., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Lowlands of Louisiana and Mississippi, bordered by swollen rivers, believed the flood crisis had passed today, but held no hope for a recession of overflow waters that have inundated thousands of acres of farm lands until late in spring.

The flood spread has ceased with the cessation of the mild winter's rains, but a wary eye is watching the rising of the big Mississippi river which bounds the two states. Present fear is not that the Father of Waters will jump its banks, but that its rise will force back the streams of swollen tributaries.

Only in isolated sections have backwaters continued to creep and at that over no appreciable area. Reports from both the delta and Louisiana regions indicate the crisis is over. United States coast guard boats have virtually completed their refugee work.

The deposing and arrest of Otto Boettcher, German president of the League, an "international city" in Lithuania, were described by the chancellor as a flagrant violation of the League statute drafted by Norman Davis in 1924 and guaranteed by England, France, Italy and Japan.

The Japanese held the attitude that the council should await the great powers' mediatory efforts and the councilors appeared to agree with this view. The council might be summoned, however, to hear other matters.

The Japanese delegation presented to the secretariat Tokyo's new declaration of policy in the Pacific, and the Shanghai area particularly. The Japanese apparently were sticking by their demands that the Manchurian question be kept separate from the Shanghai incident and that they shall not be treated under Article XV of the League covenant.

(Article XV provides that in a dispute among League members not submitted to arbitration or judicial settlement, the matter will be submitted directly to the council.)

The echo of the Tokyo report that Japan would withdraw from the League if her view in this matter was not respected was heard in unofficial Japanese quarters but such a determination was not officially confirmed.

Chancellor Heinrich Brüning, of Germany, came to Geneva for the first time in an official capacity today to attend the conference and announced he would insist on a meeting of the council of the League of Nations at once to consider the "Memorandum."

"The Passion of Jeanne d'Arc" To Be Presented Tuesday Evening

As a prologue to the picture Miss Helen C. Rowsey and Mrs. George McKee will render a group of French songs. Miss Riley and Mrs. McKee are both talented singers and their appearance will add much charm to the evening's entertainment. The program will include "Maribrough," "Il Pleure" and "Le Marche Lorraine."

Members of the advisory board of Foreign Film include Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Newell, Mr. and Mrs. John LaRose Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hodgson, Judge and Mrs. Walter T. Colquitt, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howell Jr. and Mrs. Tr. Y. Morrison, Mrs. Roby Robinson, Joel Hunter Jr., Miss Ellen Wolff and Frank Rowsey, director. "The Passion of Jeanne d'Arc," is an historical film, but not a costume film. It is an historical film that is contemporary in its universal references. It is a religious film, but not a sanctimonious film. It is beyond time, beyond period, beyond country. Life it urges to transcend. It is a transcendent film. The picture is directed by a Dane, Carl Dreyer, and the scenario is the combined work of the director and Joseph Delteil, who wrote a prize-winning book on the "Maid of Orleans." The photography is by Rudolf Mate and the film is distributed by Affiliated European Productions, Inc.

Members of Foreign Film who have not already done so may obtain reserve seats by calling for them at the box office at Hoxsey Travel Services, 91 Forsyth street. Single seats are $1 and are on sale at the above address or may be obtained at the Howell Jr. office at the Women's Club on the evening of the performance.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

What do you think of a man who allows his wife to dominate him in his family, in his business relations, in fact in every relationship of life? I have such a friend. He is known for his brilliance, his charming personality, his fine ideals. He is destined for high office, if rightly influenced. I am only one of a legion of friends watching with painful anxiety the unmistakable settlement growing against his absolute subjections to his wife's dominating whims. Instead of feeling grateful to him for having raised her to his station in life (she didn't have social position he had) she forces him into the most embarrassing situations and no matter how absurd, how unreasonable her demands, he meekly meets them, while his friends gnash their teeth. She has an ungovernable temper. She deceives him and in temper she sometimes strikes him. Yet he is blindly infatuated. His friends want to see him elevated to a place of great distinction. Yet what is his chance while he is under the domination of this young woman?

ANSWER:

I should say his chance depends entirely on the strength of his wife's ambition for him. Your friend, like most of our friends, has a weak spot in his make-up and his wife has been clever in the presence of a loved one. It is strange, isn't it, how a man, who has the promise of a brilliant future, impelled by an instinct over which he has no control, will reach out and greedily grasp the one thing that can blast that future? And yet have seen it happen so often. Sometimes it is appetite that impels him, sometimes love, sometimes it is weakness calling out for strength with which to supplement itself.

But when all is said and done, if the longing of the heart be satisfied, one cannot ask for more. Fame is fleeting, the gratification of ambition may be a hollow mockery. The approbation of one's acquaintances and friends is an ephemeral source of pleasure. The crowd is fickle. Their plaudits proffered to one man today are proffered to another tomorrow. But when a man has his heart that beats rhythmically with his is secure and permanent.

So don't worry about a friend that loves his wife and is dominated by her. Love always demands that we relinquish much of our liberty. Most of us are bondslaves to some other. Most of us are chained to some man, some woman, or some child, some ambition, or some ideal. It is not the free that are happy but the chained.

If love has chained us we may be happy despite the loss of liberty, but if lack of love has left us free we cannot be happy with all our liberty, for we cannot go far without being brought face to face with some fact or circumstance of life that holds us fast and in this event, we lack the compensation that the heart alone can supply.

Keep your pity for the loveless man. Gnash your teeth over the plight of the unwilling slave. Abandon your political hopes for a man whose passion is his wife and who is dominated by her. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Culbertson on Contract

The Psychic Factor.
BY ELY CULBERTSON.
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

There are many so-called psychic bids at contract which do not deserve the name. They lack the element of psychological insight and appreciation of the make-up of the opposing players which is an absolute essential in the use of bids which mean something other than appears on the surface. Coarse bluff bids cost their makers far more points than they ever win. On the other hand, a clear appreciation of the psychological factor will frequently result in securing results otherwise unobtainable. Where that result is only the reaching of the correct eventual contract, the use of keen psychology may tempt a player and the opportunity for a profitable redouble that would be lost by more forthright means, as is shown in the hand below played by Mr. André E. Levy at the Nuevo Club in Mexico City. Mr. Levy was seated south. Both sides vulnerable.

Martin's Summer

BY VICKI BAUM.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Martin listened with embarrassment to the easy flow of talk, but when the baron opened the door and lighted the small lantern, Martin observed that he was very yellow all the same, with a shrunken look as if a fresh attack of ague was coming on. Martin began to feel bitterly ashamed of himself as he stood on the landing stage where Puck had laid him the day she rescued him from the lake.

"You see, jealousy is now a necessity of the human soul. It is not a primitive emotion. It is a matter of convention, something superinduced and superimposed," said Baron Dobbersberg, as Martin put the oars in the rowlocks. "Wait a moment, doctor, till I loose the chain. Pull with your right, doctor, or you'll be into the milling boat. Are you all right?"

"Yes—quite. Thank you very much," said Martin, as he plunged the oars into the water.

The baron still held the chain in his hand. He went on: "I have no wish to inhospitably toward you. Therefore perhaps it would be as well if you came over no more to us from the other side. Good night, Dr. Heil. He threw in the chain—in a way that marked the limit of his self-control—and shoved the boat off from the landing stage with a vigorous kick.

Well, there I got my box on the ears, thought Martin, as the boat put out into the lake, leaving a tiny cold trickle of sweat on his burning back. Inside the boathouse the baron put out the lantern and shut the door for some time in the darkness with his face pressed against the glass, alone with those suppressed secrets which are in every human heart and cannot be exercised by any philosophy. After this day, there was no news of Fraulein Lyssenhof. There was no money in the table drawer and there were no receipts to be entered in the depressing little account book. He did not care to swim, and he was in his arm from the rusty nail was not healing properly, and the water was 14 degrees. Up to then meals had not been any too regular, but now hunger was unmitigated and invariable; and hunger, after three or four days of it, has the effect of an illness. It brings on dizziness and shaking fits and makes the world creep into a corner and howl.

Martin went to and fro, seeking the means to stave off starvation. Frau Heil was in bed after giving birth to fine twins, and she was unable for some time to make bilberry tart. The hump-backed Resi, deprived of employment by this week of rain, had left her washhouse and gone to help in the Birnd household. The Mayrers were at the Seespitz, far away behind the wall of rain, and had been seen. The von Brinchmann ladies had packed their trunks and gone. There were no more cups of coffee and cream buns.

At night Martin dreamed of a market-place. It extended on and on without end, and he walked on and on, looking at stalls of ham, sausages, hunches of bacon, hunches of meat, and poultry. Mountains of fruit were heaped up in baskets. Gingerbread was built up in tiers. The cheeses were as shaggy as wagon wheels and there were crates, boiled red, on blocks of ice. Martin, too, so he dreamed, was lying on a block of ice, and the cold of it awakened him. The cold crept over his limbs like a hateful animal. He turned over on to the other side, for his arm hurt a little. "Iodin—," said Dr. Mayr, who was devouring a huge shoulder of veal, as Martin fell asleep again.

He dreamed of Schwoissackel's. In the middle of Schwoissackel's restaurant stood a long table set with plates in a row. Warm steam rose from each plate with a savor that made his throat contract. He wanted to eat, but he could not use his arm—and there he sat panting with

Maryland and Kentucky Are Only Unbeaten Conference Fives; Two Cracker Officials Return Home With Promises of Help

Who should come sidling in the door of the room where Bill Daly was lying very flat on his back indeed but Ray Francis, the Mayor of Chisel Switch, Georgia.

Bill Daly, the Cracker trainer, is very flat on his back because an automobile knocked him that way. If Bill Daly could rub his own back he says he could rub himself right out of the bed in a couple of days. But Bill Daly can not rub his own back any more than you can kiss your own elbow. So he remains on his back.

All Bill Daly's friends drop around and listen to Bill Daly talk. Because the automobile was kind to Bill Daly's Adam's apple and did his throat no damage, Bill Daly can talk a fine steak and potatoes or can talk very fine mess of fish with side dishes. And so Ray Francis, who is something of an eater himself, dropped in with the rest of the boys.

Ray Francis won 15 games and tied two in the Piedmont league last season. He could pitch in the Southern league if some manager were willing to let him wait until summer. Because Ray Francis never could win in the spring.

It seems that Ray Francis has about decided to turn in his uniform and get a job as a policeman in Atlanta. And if the mayor will listen to the people who know Ray Francis he will appoint him very quickly because the one-time Cracker would make a very fine copper. He is tall and slim and handsome. Like as not he would be about as popular as Jack Malcolm, the most popular copper of them all.

And that left-arm clutch would be very hard on the boys who are sticking people up. Because Ray Francis has plenty of the old monkey. Which is what it takes.

I do not see why some of the Southeastern teams are not wiring Ray Francis to come quick and manage their ball club and let the copper business go. Because Ray Francis can still pitch. And he knows baseball.

There should be quite a lot of competition on between the city of Atlanta and one of the Southeastern league cities as to who would get Ray Francis' services. Because he would be valuable to either one.

PLENTY OF WIT.

I think it was Ray Francis who put stitches in a lot of sides one day down in New Orleans. The boys were riding to the park in a taxicab. The traffic light stopped it close to the curb where stood two old gentlemen with very long white beards.

Ray Francis leaned out of the cab and shook a very disapproving finger in the faces of the two startled old men.

"Why aren't you boys in school?" said Ray Francis solemnly.

He is a good man to have around a ball club or a police department because he keeps up morale and good humor and that sort of thing. And he does not say much. Ray Francis never has much to say. He minds his own business and does good work.

So, The Constitution Sports Department urges the police committee and the Southeastern league members to get busy and do something about signing up Ray Francis.

BILL DALY'S MARATHON.

Bill Daly, having read the story about Ray Miller, the Georgia Tech marathon runner, remembered that he once trained a marathon runner. Bill Daly is like that. Some day I am going in training and develop a story which Bill Daly can not match.

Bill Daly's marathon runner was a real one. He was all ready to go in the foot race from Cincinnati to Berea, Ky., a 15-mile jaunt.

"He has to go across a bridge which was just outside the city," said Bill. "We had some rich prize money ahead. My boy gets started on the bridge and some friend hands him a lemon. When all this sour lemon juice strikes him he folds up and did not even get across the bridge out of Cincinnati. So I trained no more marathons."

"It was that same afternoon that I have a marathon swimmer in a race," continued Bill Daly, whose mind runs to sad things now that he is pinned flat on his back. "This swimmer is out in front 200 yards when he looks back to see where the other boys is. As he turns his head back a wave slaps him in the face and he takes a lungful of water. We had to get him out with a boat and a hook."

"So I trained no more marathon swimmers. I do not like marathons."

SPEAKING OF GOLF.

Which we were not, Howard Land's Sweetwater course near Austell, provided a laugh Sunday afternoon. The Honorable Jimmy Burns came on the course to the first tee for the first game of the year over the course.

He peered toward the first green and said to his caddy, "Well, I see the green is in the same old place."

"Yes," said the caddy, "and so is the ditch."

"You must have caddied for me before," said Mr. Burns, sadly.

NO! NO! NO!

Why, that restaurant is so Spanish all the waiters have Spanish bunions.

YES! YES! YES!

Good-will and international amity must have come to the winter sports Olympic games at Lake Placid dressed like Gandhi. They are conspicuous by their absence.

And now that the boys have traded fists and cross words it seems very strange to start off the stories of the international ill-will with a Lake Placid date line. Or does it matter?

KENTUCKY STEP AHEAD OF RIVAL IN HOOP CHASE

Georgia Tech Quintet To Play Auburn Here Saturday Night.

By Dillon Graham, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Maryland and Kentucky, last year's champion and runner-up in Southern conference basketball, stand today as the only unbeaten survivors among the 23 teams that started the Dixie cage campaign six weeks ago.

But both had to show the comeback qualities of champions last week to hold their top positions as two other favored quintets, Alabama and Auburn, were defeated in real upsets. Kentucky, with seven conference wins, is a step ahead of Maryland which has six. Trailing Duke at the half, Kentucky opened a winning drive in the second period before Governor Ruby Laffoon and his official party to edge out the Blue Devils 37-30 as Darby, Sale and Demosier all ran up eight points.

CLOSE CALL.

Maryland's margin over North Carolina was a single point, 23-25. The Tarheels almost doubled Maryland's scoring efforts in the first half, leading 20-11. Maryland pulled out even terms late in the contest and a field goal by the All-Southern guard, Berger, finally brought victory. Vanderbilt's defeat of Alabama was the biggest surprise of the season. The Commodores had been beaten several times, including a severe 61-37 lacing by Kentucky, and were accorded a little chance against the powerful Crimson's Vanderbilt's 38-22 decision broke Alabama's string of eight victories. The Crimson's previously had won from Georgia Tech, 34-19, and had beaten Tennessee, 25-21. Vanderbilt also won from Sewanee, 32-21. Auburn apparently took Tulane too lightly. The Greenies piled up an early advantage Friday which carried them a 26-21 verdict. Only a final blast last night enabled Auburn to win the second game, 42-37, after the Greenies had led most of the contest.

VIRGINIA WINS.

Virginia added another victory over N. C. State, 20-17, and Mississippi jumped to sixth place with two victories, 18-16, over North Carolina and 31-25, Georgia won from Clemson, 41-28, and avenged an earlier defeat from Georgia Tech, 25-15. Clemson dropped two more games to Florida, 25-36 and 33-34. Duke made a successful invasion of Virginia, winning from Washington and Lee, 30-27, and M. L. 41-23, while North Carolina State broke even on its northern trip, losing to Virginia and to W. L. 20-15, and defeating V. M. L. 31-22, and V. P. L. 22-13.

Mississippi and Tulane divided, Mississippi victorious, 52-43, and Tulane taking the other, 41-29. North Carolina beat V. P. L. 31-20. Virginia lost its intercollegiate clash with Ohio State, 26-30.

Both Kentucky and Maryland have strenuous games booked for this week. Kentucky probably will have its hardest fight Monday night against Alabama at Lexington, while Maryland looks for trouble with Virginia at College Park, Saturday. Kentucky also meets Tennessee Saturday.

AUBURN, L. S. U.

Auburn will be forced to the limit to beat Louisiana State's high scoring forwards, Samuels and Torrance, at Baton Rouge Monday and Tuesday. Auburn also plays Georgia Tech in Atlanta Saturday, while Georgia Tech plays Florida at Gainesville Friday and Saturday.

South Carolina re-enters conference play against Clemson Friday and Saturday and Duke meets North Carolina Saturday. Mississippi tackles Sewanee Wednesday and Louisiana State and Tulane clash Friday and Saturday.

The standings of the Southern conference basketball teams, including games of last Saturday, follow:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Kentucky	7	0	1.000
Maryland	6	0	1.000
Auburn	6	1	.857
Virginia	5	1	.833
Tennessee	5	1	.833
Georgia	5	2	.714
North Carolina	4	2	.667
F. C. State	4	3	.571
Georgia Tech	3	3	.500
South Carolina	3	3	.500
Georgia	3	3	.500
Tulane	3	4	.429
Mississippi	3	4	.429
Florida	2	5	.286
Clemson	1	7	.125
Sewanee	0	8	.000
V. P. L.	0	8	.000

Tech Has Four Contests Left.

Georgia Tech's basketball team will settle down today to practice for the remaining four games on its pre-tournament schedule.

The Jackets play Sam McAllister's Auburn Tigers here Saturday night. Mercer is here on Wednesday night week, and Florida on Saturday night week. On February 23 the Georgia Bulldogs are here for the "rubber" game of the season.

Saturday night the Red and Black beat Tech in Athens, 25-15, to even the series after Munderoff's men had won the opener here 30-20. A big crowd is expected for both the Auburn and Georgia games.

Munderoff seated last night that Kentucky's undefeated Wildcats wanted his team to come to Lexington for a game Monday week, but that it was hardly likely. The curtain will fall after the four scheduled contests are played and the Jackets then will go into the tournament.

Munderoff's squad has lost the services of Gene Gatlin, a young center who has left the squad, he reported last night.

Yacht 'Moonshine' Wins Cuban Event

HAVANA, Feb. 7.—(P)—Moonshine, of the Narragansett bay fleet, today won the second race of the series for the Cuba yachting cup.

New Loop Head

Baseball men are hailing the appointment of Roy G. Williams, of Macon, to the presidency of the revived Southeastern baseball league as a wise move. Williams is a veteran baseball man and it is predicted he will carry the league through as no other man could have done. Reformation of the Southeastern will be a big aid to the Southern and other Class A loops. Atlanta has a working agreement with Columbus.

NEW 'B' LOOP AIDS BASEBALL

Gives Players Jobs and Helps A Clubs; Williams Good Man.

When baseball enthusiasts of the Southeastern met at Montgomery, Ala., recently to breathe new life into the defunct Southeastern league, it was just about the best thing that has happened to baseball in some time.

The minor league situation had grown so serious that the West Baden meeting, Judge W. G. Bramham, an experienced baseball man of North Carolina, was appointed chairman of a committee to help restore some of the abandoned circuits.

The major league moguls received quite a jolt when they checked up at West Baden to discover that 82 minor leagues that once flourished in the country had dwindled to 16.

The revival of the Southeastern will help. It not only will put a number of ball players back in circulation, but will afford working agreements for the Class A and AA leagues. Before the Southeastern was put back to working, there was not a Class B league south of the majors, outside of the Piedmont, of which Judge Bramham was president. This made things very inconvenient.

Roy Williams, who succeeded to the presidency of the Southeastern, was about the best man that could have been named for the job. Williams is an experienced baseball man, wise in the way of player manipulations and saving finances. His honesty and common sense have been cited as valuable assets by other baseball men, including Bert Niehoff.

Williams reports to The Constitution that hundreds of applications for jobs have been received from ball players out of work. The six members of the league already in are Selma, Montgomery and Mobile, Ala.; Macon and Columbus, Ga., and Pensacola, Fla.

Two Mississippi clubs may come in later. If not, the league will function as a 6-club circuit.

Bogart Defeats Athens Five, 17-12

BOGART, Ga., Feb. 7.—In one of the hardest fought games of the local season, Bogart High's basketball quintet, defeated Athens five here this week-end, 17-12.

The Bogart lads led at half time, 7 to 2, but the final stanza found the game more closely contested. It was the outstanding play of "Buck" Cash and J. B. Smith which gave the Oconee county team its seventh victory of the season. Dudley Cook, ex-Georgia star, and Nathan Cox, former Athens High luminary, played best for the losers.

Pinehurst Opens Valentine Meet

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 7.—(UP)—Mrs. Richard D. Clemson, Middletown, N. Y., defending champion, and Helen Waring, New York, both finalists in the Pinehurst autumn tournament, were favorites in the 27th annual women's St. Valentine's Day golf tournament beginning tomorrow. The meet starts with an 18-hole qualifying round Monday. Other prominent entrants are Mrs. John D. Chapman, Greenwich, Conn.; Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, Bryn Mawr, Pa.; former north and south open. The field is expected to exceed 50 players.

Virginia Van Wie Wins Women's Open

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—(P)—Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago golf stylist, won the annual Los Angeles amateur women's golf tournament today, defeating Max Lewis B. Cheney, the former Leona Preslar, of San Gabriel, Cal., 3 and 2, in the 36-hole final.

CORRI CHOSEN AS HUNT FOE IN BOUT HERE

Max Ableson Seeks Good Semi-Final for February 19.

By Jimmy Jones.

Pietro Corri, rugged Austrian heavyweight, has been selected as the opponent for Babe Hunt, the Police City puncher, here the night of February 19 and both principals have been approved by the Atlanta boxing commission.

The announcement came from Max Ableson, matchmaker, yesterday afternoon.

Corri was okayed by the commission late Saturday night and Ableson now is busy himself with lining up a supporting card for the most pretentious heavyweight scrap Atlanta has had in several months.

He plans a first-class semi-final between two well-known boys as the No. 2 attraction on the program.

In choosing Corri from the list of candidates for the right to meet Hunt, Ableson thinks he landed the toughest heavyweight of the lot. The Austrian, who is handled by Matty Herbert out of New York, weighs 200 pounds and is the baring type of scrapper. He doesn't mind taking punches and stops quite a few of them with his chin, but he is as tough as granite.

Corri first attracted attention when he went 10 rounds with W. L. Stripling at Tampa when W. L. was at his peak. Stripling won, but it was a very close decision. They fought again at Birmingham and although W. L. won, the bout again was close. He cracked a hand on Corri's jaw and thereby lost a bout he had lined up with Ernie Schaaf at the time.

POPULAR.

The Austrian is rated one of the most popular club fighters in the country. He has won 10 bouts in the past 12 months. He is driving up from Miami en route to Chicago to second his son in the bout with Ernie Schaaf February 20. Hunt will work out here before the fight.

The Oklahomaan was signed for the bout Saturday by the union.

In a genuine effort to get boxing started, Ableson says that he intends to have the prices at popular rates for this show. He will follow with two more bouts, one with Corri and Jack Dempsey will appear on one of them.

Much depends on how the patronage is for the Hunt-Corri go.

Piedmont Golfers Plan Spring Meets

Dick Winchell and his mates will be guests of Duke Turner and his team at a dinner at 7 o'clock tonight at the Hotel Hamilton. They have heard the call before—strongest when they stood in the excited mob at Indianapolis and watched the mad melodrama of helmeted figures flying along a 500-mile oil-stained course, blistering rubber and the roar of high-powered motors.

Being a principal in such a scene might not have the slightest appeal to you and me but it has to Wesley Argo and Buddy Calloway. These two Georgia boys have been driving the dirt track for years. Anyone who knows auto racing at all will tell you that it takes a pretty good chauffeur to drive a dirt track in fast company.

Buddy Calloway, a big, strapping fellow with all kinds of nerve, is just about the best dirt track chauffeur in the country today and what is more, he has dusted Lou Schneider in county fair races before Lou drove himself into big time at Indianapolis.

The main reason Calloway and Wesley Argo have not driven in the classic at Indianapolis that comes off every May 30 is because it costs lots of money to equip and enter a car. Most of these obscure lads who enter the 500-mile and accomplish anything are backed by some "angel" with plenty of cash or some automotive firm.

Finding such a man has been a task for the two Georgia boys. They have had promises that failed to pan out. This year they decided to go ahead on their own hook and build their own car. They have had promises that failed to pan out. This year they decided to go ahead on their own hook and build their own car. They have had promises that failed to pan out. This year they decided to go ahead on their own hook and build their own car.

Both boys are good mechanics. They have been putting in many hours of hard work. Saturday Wes Argo, who came to Atlanta to get some parts, reported that the airplane motor was already in the block and that they hoped to have the job through before long.

It will take about $2,000 more to complete the job. They have an untested friend who is helping some. Between times they are driving in the Florida winter races to recruit further funds. When their special is ready they will try it out over the Daytona Beach course and then take it to Indianapolis.

They don't anticipate any trouble qualifying for the big race, and figure to get in at 115 miles per hour. The big thing in the speedway classic is to keep a machine running. If they can do this and run around 100 they are a cinch to finish in the money. If they finish as good as tenth they will get $1,000, which will pay for their car and some more.

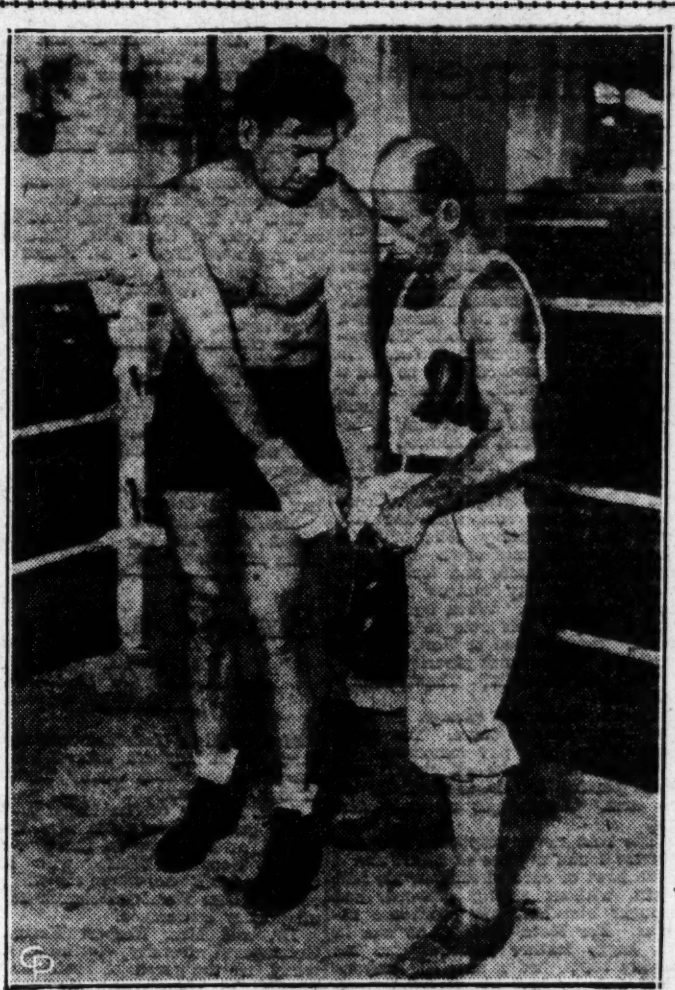

Calloway will do the driving and Argo, who is an Atlanta boy, will work in the pit. This 500-mile is a great ordeal. The drivers wrap their bodies with tape to protect themselves against the terrific vibration. It takes a good man to finish.

Although they get tires, gas and oil furnished, the boys could use a backer who might help them through. But, backer or no backer, they will be Georgia's first entrants in the big push, and well-wishers back in the home state will watch their success. There is a courageous undertaking, regardless of where they finish.

BURKE CARDS 72.

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 7.—(UP)—Billie Burke, national open golf champion, shot a par 72 to beat Gene Sarazen, former national open champion, who had a 74, in an exhibition match at the Belvedere-Biltmore Country Club today.

Busy This Week

Jack Dempsey, the old Man Mauler, will swing back into action tonight with the lifting of the ban against him which the N. B. A. recently set up. Dempsey boxes in Milwaukee tonight and in Cleveland later in the week. He is scheduled to appear here in March. He is shown here with his trainer getting on the gloves for a workout.

Two Georgia Drivers To Try for 500-Mile

Calloway and Argo Build Own Machine for Indianapolis Speed Classic May 30.

By Jimmy Jones.

That arduous, treacherous track that is the Indianapolis speedway—a route over which many brave men ride to glory, gold and sometimes death—has called a couple of Georgia Crackers to year. They have heard the call before—strongest when they stood in the excited mob at Indianapolis and watched the mad melodrama of helmeted figures flying along a 500-mile oil-stained course, blistering rubber and the roar of high-powered motors.

Being a principal in such a scene might not have the slightest appeal to you and me but it has to Wesley Argo and Buddy Calloway.

PLAYER DEALS EXPECTED SOON; OUTLOOK GOOD

Return of Pitcher Gregory Reported Sought; Would Aid Staff.

By Ralph McGill.

Red Barron and F. H. (Chick) Roos, the traveling ambassadors who have been going about the country planting seed of good will for the Crackers in the hearts of their fellow-men, returned home Sunday from Chicago.

That was their last stop on an itinerary which included New York, Newark, Philadelphia and Chicago. The results of their trip were not to be expressed immediately in players but players are coming.

One or two player deals are expected to be concluded within the week or within next week at the latest, which will bring a good man to the Crackers.

The ambassadors had nothing to say for publication beyond the fact that they had established good contacts.

GREGORY SOUGHT.

It is reported that the Cracker officials made an earnest plea that the White Sox return Pitcher Paul Gregory to them. Gregory would be listed as a "B" pitcher and as the club must carry a certain number of them this season, Gregory is one of the men most sought. He is experienced and would be as effective as a Class "A" pitcher.

Gregory was taken by the White Sox last season as payment for the help given the Crackers during the year. The Crackers are most anxious that he be returned. It is understood that there is an excellent chance that he will be sent here for further seasoning but he will probably be looked over in the spring camp before any decision is made.

REAR HELP.

The Chicago situation, where the Crackers have a working agreement with the White Sox, is expected to produce starting help. The Chicago office has admitted cheerfully that it has some help for the Crackers but that the bulk of it will not be delivered until the major league training season has started.

The new officials were not sure what the working agreement was. Nothing definite had been put down beyond the fact that the White Sox were to have first claim on any material the Crackers might develop. The Crackers had not been assured of any sort of definite arrangement regarding the class men they were to get. Hence the necessity for a conference.

GOOD ON LIST.

From a source outside the Cracker official family it was learned that Wilbur Good, former manager, is being considered as coach for the club this year. The new rules permit the carrying of an extra man to serve as coach, provided he plays in no game during the year.

Wilbur Good would be an ideal man to coach. He was a star player and was a star manager. He was in charge while Barron was busy during the spring training and would be invaluable to have on the bench while Barron is on the field playing.

There are a number of men being considered. Good is just one of them. He would be very valuable in coaching hitters. Good was one of the greatest hitters in the history of the game. He was always high in runs batted in and was late as 1925 was batting over 300 in the Southern association.

The Crackers must carry five rookie players all season and a coach who can help them with the bat would be the strength of the team. The club which is lucky in its crop of rookies will be well up in the race.

And the Cracker officials are trying. Their efforts are sure to bear fruit.

Ansley Golfers In Second Round

With all first-round matches completed, Ansley Park golfers will start play today in the second round of the mid-winter handicap tournament being sponsored by Tommy Wilson, club professional. Ample time will be given to complete every match as the strength of the team. The club which is lucky in its crop of rookies will be well up in the race.
